50 PLUNGE INTO RIVER WHEN OCEAN LINER'S GANGPLANK BREAKS

Woman and Two Children Missing
After Crew of Frederick VIII.
Drag Victims From Water at Hoboken Pier.

Fifty persons, a majority of them women and children, were thrown into the Hudson River by the breaking of a crowded gangplank a few moments before the steamer Frederick VIII. of the Scandinavian-American Line was scheduled to sail from Hoboken for Copenhagen this afternoon. A panic followed, both on the steamer and the pier. So far as known all were rescued from the river, with the exception of a woman and two children.

Those missing are:
MRS. J. W. EDWARDS, of No. 743 West Forty-third street, New York City.
MARY EDWARDS, three-years old, daughter of Mrs. Edwards.
ANNA FELTSHEN, five-years old, No. 4 Halbert street, Astoria, L. I. The body of the four-year-old child was found later in the river.
Seven persons were taken to St. Mary's Hospital. They are:
J. W. Anderson, twenty-eight years old, No. 35 Simpson street, Woodhaven, L. I. Right ribs badly injured.

Mrs. Emilie Jacobson, forty years, No. 415 Clinton avenue, Brooklyn. Right arm bruised.
Carl Wigland, twenty-five years old, No. 945 Fifth avenue, employed by Jacob Schiff. Hip badly bruised.
Joh Kjobenes, forty years old, No. 116 High street, West Orange, N. J. Right leg badly bruised.
Mrs. Donaldson, No. 809 Fourth avenue, Brooklyn. She struck her chest and was taken to the hospital in a critical condition.

Samuel Thompson, twenty-four years, No. 34 Halstead street, East Orange, N. J. Right leg bruised.
Olaf Bjested, sixty-two years, No. 24 Beach avenue, Maspeth, L. I. Face cut and lacerated scalp.
Others who were treated for sunburn and who did not have to go to the hospital were:

Mrs. Mary Carlson, No. 1899 Third avenue, Brooklyn, also treated for hysterics as her child was reported drowned, but was later found; John Fischer, forty years old, No. 151 East Forty-ninth street, New York City; Anna Jakarsen, No. 4916 Sixth avenue, Brooklyn; Agnes Sorensen, twenty-three years old, No. 1121 Eighty-third street, Brooklyn.

Mrs. J. Marcus, New Rochelle, N. Y., also lost her pocketbook, containing $100, while in the water.

The gangplank gave way directly in the middle and nearly everybody on it was hurled into the river. A few that were at the shore end managed to reach the dock, but all the others dropped into the water.

There was a scene of wild excitement and it was at first feared that many lives had been lost. All the ambulances in the city were hurriedly called to the steamship dock and preparations were made to convey the injured to the hospital.

There were scores ready to assist in the rescue work, and life-preservers, pike poles and ropes were used to aid the persons struggling in the water. As fast as the rescued persons were taken from the river they were looked after by Dr. George F. Veneck, chief surgeon of the Scandinavian-American Line; Dr. George Nichols and Dr. Callery and John Boylan, the latter two being members of the staff of St. Mary's Hospital.

Queen Mary during a matinee performance at His Majesty's Theatre this afternoon, calling the monarch "A Russian Czar" and creating pandemonium before they were ejected. Two other suffragettes raided the National Gallery and the Royal Academy of Art and ruined six masterpieces.

In Bow Street Police Court, where fifty-seven of the Buckingham Palace rioters were arraigned, the women attacked the Magistrate, hurling bags of flour and other missiles at him, while a free fight they started with the police, forced the closing of court.

Annie Kenney, a suffragette leader, forced her way into the palace of the Archbishop of Canterbury with the avowed intention of staying until the prelate granted her an audience. Chained to her seat so they could not throw her out, a militant suffragette all but broke up a performance of "The Silver King" at His Majesty's Theatre, while King George and Queen Mary occupied the royal box. "Release Mrs. Pankhurst," the woman yelled at the top of her voice for fully twenty minutes, while frantic theatre attendants worked with the

Huerta Masses Troops Near Mexico City to Repel an Attack by Funston.

(Special Cable Dispatch to The Evening World.)
MEXICO CITY, May 22.—John R. Silliman, American Vice-Consul in San Luis Potosi, whose arrest and imprisonment for weeks by the Mexican Federalists in Saltillo almost caused an open rupture between the United States and Mexico, and the ending of the peace mediation, arrived here safely and in good health this afternoon.

Silliman was turned over to the Brazilian Minister and probably will be furnished a safe conduct into the American lines at Vera Cruz, as promised weeks ago by Gen. Huerta. Mr. Silliman, who is a classmate of President Wilson, was arrested while on a visit to Saltillo. Repeated demands for his release met with the statement that communication with Silliman was interrupted by the rebels and that as soon as possible he would be brought here and delivered to the Brazilian Minister, who is in charge of American interests in the capital.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Army officials following the situation in Mexico itself see in the evacuation of Saltillo confirmation of their fears that Huerta does not expect materially to aid mediation. They believe that he is concentrating his troops as near Mexico City as possible, so that he can meet an American advance.

Weston Burwell, a distant relative of Secretary of the Navy Daniels, was reported killed in the Ozuama district of Mexico in despatches to the State Department this afternoon. Another American, Dick Urban, has been shot down in Mexico, according to reports.

chain that held her to her chair. "You Russian Czar," repeatedly screamed another suffragette, who occupied a seat in the pit immediately below the box where sat Their Majesties.

Another suffragette jumped on the stage and attempted to harangue the King and Queen. For half an hour there was the utmost confusion and uproar, finally the chained militant was released and all the suffragettes ejected from the theatre.

While the three suffragettes were yelling at the King and Queen, members of the Women's Social and Political Union bobbed up all over the house and added to the pandemonium.

Throughout the melee King George and Queen Mary sat quietly in the box. (Continued on Third Page.)

Jury Was Out Only Two Hours, but Verdict Was Found in a Few Minutes, and the Rest of the Time Was Spent in Discussion So as Not to Give Indications of Undue Haste.

CONVICTED MAN FIRM AS EVER AS HE HEARS DOOM.

Sentence to Be Imposed Next Friday —Court Orders That Jurors Must Not Be Approached and Sends
Them to Dinner Under a Police Guard After Their Dismissal.

Charles Becker was found guilty of the murder of Herman Rosenthal this afternoon.

The jury took but one ballot and then remained in the jury room for an hour and a half discussing the case in order that there might be no ground for criticism as to apparent undue haste.

The jury retired at 12:49 o'clock, following Justice Seabury's charge, but went to lunch and did not return until 3 o'clock.

Immediately after the doors of the jury room were locked a poll was taken. This required but a few minutes, each juror registering his vote of guilty without explanation.

It was not until 4:47 o'clock that the foreman sent word that the jury was ready to report. The jurymen filed into the courtroom through the rear door.

Each man looked worn and tired. All had aged perceptibly since they had left the courtroom four hours before.

Justice Seabury took his seat as the jury entered the box.

Becker walked in from the entrance that had been used by the jury. His step was firm, his carriage erect.

He shot a glance at the jury box as soon as he got into range and took his position before the judge's bench with one hand resting on the rail.

Becker, with a look almost of defiance, searched the face of every man in the box. Then he concentrated his gaze on the foreman, F. Meredith Blagden, who is a young man of slight physique and showed plainly the strain under which he was laboring. By that time it was quite apparent to everybody in the room that the jury had found Becker guilty.

"Have you reached a verdict?" asked Clerk Penny. "We have," replied Foreman Blagden, in a low voice. "What is your verdict—guilty or not guilty?"

"WE FIND THE DEFENDANT GUILTY, AS CHARGED." Becker did not move. His hand-clasp on the rail was steady. He kept his eyes fixed on the face of the foreman.

Mr. Manton demanded a poll of the jury, and as each jurymen was asked if the verdict was his verdict Becker looked earnestly at the speaker.

The formality of taking the pedigree of the convicted man was
